

I-90 Green Card Renewal Reference Guide

You are close to getting your new green card. While you wait for your green card, please keep the following in mind.

Processing Times

Check the USCIS website here to see how long it is taking USCIS to process I-90s in general. Be sure to select “I-90|Application to Replace Permanent Resident Card” in the first drop-down and “Potomac Service Center” on the second drop-down.

Check Your Case Status

You can check your case status on the USCIS website here. MyImmigration will also send you updates anytime your case status changes.

Address Changes

It is very important that you promptly update your address when you move. If you don't, your green card may be sent to the wrong address. You can update your address on USCIS's website here.

Temporary Proof of Lawful Permanent Resident (LPR) Status.

While your I-90 is pending, you may need current proof of your LPR status to travel, for employment purposes, renew a driver's license, apply for government benefits, or other reasons. There are two types of temporary documents you can use to show you are a lawful permanent resident while your I-90 is pending:

1. I-90 Receipt Notice (Form I-797). If you applied to renew your green card because it is expired for less than two years or it will be expiring, USCIS will send you a receipt notice with language stating the expiration date on your expired green card is extended for two years. Your current green card with this notice will be sufficient proof of your LPR status while your I-90 is pending.

2. ADIT Stamp. For all other reasons for replacing your green card, you will need to make an appointment with your local USCIS office to obtain an ADIT stamp in your unexpired passport or, if you don't have a passport, a form I-94 paper card with an ADIT stamp. To successfully make the appointment, you must have your I-90 receipt number. As soon as you know your receipt number, you can either make your appointment by making the appointment online or by calling USCIS via phone.
  - To make an Infopass appointment online, you can begin that process with USCIS here: <https://my.uscis.gov/en/appointment/v2>
  - To make the InfoPass appointment via phone, follow these instructions:
    - Call 800-375-5283.
    - Say, "I would like to make an InfoPass appointment."
